When the complaint alleges a violation of the Parenting Time/Custody Order and the matter is not resolved by the other parent agreeing to a satisfactory solution, a conference for both parents may be scheduled with a Parenting Time Advocate. The purpose of such a conference would be to resolve and to determine if further action by this office is warranted.

In the event there is no resolution of the complaint and there is a violation of the Order, the Friend of the Court may schedule a hearing before either a referee or a circuit judge. Domestic relations mediation is also available through the Friend of the Court to resolve the dispute upon the agreement of both parties.
