Calhoun County WIC Program Now on Facebook

The Calhoun County Public Health Department's WIC (Women, Infants, and Children) program is proud to announce "WIC Breastfeeding Connections" is now on Facebook. "The goal of this new tool is to provide another means of open communication about breastfeeding with our clientele, as well as with others who may be interested," states Diana Hazard, WIC Program Manager. "We're constantly trying to think outside of the box to meet our clients where they are." Calhoun County is the FIRST WIC program in Michigan available on Facebook.

Facebook is the health department's next step as we continue looking for ways to educate and provide health information to our community. "WIC Breastfeeding Connections" provides WIC clients, new mothers, and Calhoun County residents with information on breastfeeding. It serves as a gathering place for those interested in breastfeeding to share experiences, ask questions, and provide success stories. Links to great resources and hot topics are also available.

Please join today to become a fan of "WIC Breastfeeding Connections" on Facebook.
